About the Institute

Dates and Locations

Scholars participate in the two-phase Institute held on June 18–22 (Newark) and August 6–8 (Lewes) with field visits to Washington, D.C., the Port of Wilmington, and Dover, Del.

Two Ways to Apply

Teachers may apply to 1) earn professional-development recertification hours at no cost or 2) enroll for summer session graduate credit (in which case they will be responsible for in-state tuition cost of $1,347* per credit hour and registration fees of $50).

*subject to change

Course

The Institute has been established to inspire youth involvement in government and politics through innovative teaching.

The Institute is designed to build on participants' knowledge of the Delaware Civics Standards and content by providing educators with a deeper, more nuanced understanding of government and politics.

Scholars meet with education experts as well as key political and government leaders at the local, state, and national levels.

Enrollment Deadline

The deadline for application has been extended until capacity is reached.

Housing

Housing and meals are provided on the University's Newark and Lewes campuses and in Dover (double-occupancy rooms).

Accessibility

To request special accommodations, please indicate needs on application and contact Lisa Moreland in advance of the program.

Sample of Topics

- Understanding the Standards
- Government, Politics, Citizenship, Participation
- Campaign Commercials in the Classroom
- Lobbyists and Decision-Making
- Politics and the Press
- Issues in the United States Senate
- Delivering Justice
- Understanding the State Education Budget

Practicing politicians, political journalists, lobbyists, and public officials will recount their experiences and challenges and engage scholars in candid discussions.

Benefits

Scholars will:

- Immerse themselves in the Delaware Civics Standards.
- Meet and interact with leaders at all levels of government.
- Renew their understanding of the challenges and divided interests facing government leaders.
- Refresh their appreciation for the conflict and compromise that ensure true representative democracy.
- Develop innovative and interactive lesson plans to inspire youth involvement in democracy.
- Share their ideas and network with colleagues and program speakers.

Expectations

Participants agree to:

- Develop a lesson related to the goals of the Institute and aligned with the Delaware Civics Standards.
- Present their lesson during the Institute to fellow Scholars who teach at their general grade level.
